

Pricing

Every project is quoted before work starts. You describe the product. AiCodrs MMC replies with a written scope, a timeline, and a price in US dollars. Work begins when you accept that quote. The price you pay is the amount in that quote.

WHAT THE PRICE INCLUDES

1. A working product. You receive software you can run, built to the scope in the quote.
2. The source code. You receive the source written for that scope. Tools and libraries made by other people stay under their own licences.
3. A human review. A person at AiCodrs reviews the build before it is handed over. Agents may draft the code. AiCodrs MMC is responsible for what it delivers.

WHAT A QUOTE CONTAINS

There is one price for the agreed scope. The quote is the price list for that project.

Scope. The product, who it is for, and what done looks like.

Timeline. When the work starts, and when it is handed over.

Price. The amount in US dollars for that scope.

Delivery. The working product, the source code, and the review.

HOW YOU PAY

You pay the amount named in the accepted quote. A payment on this website is a one-time payment for the agreed work, unless the quote says the work is split into parts.

Before a payment is opened, you agree to the Terms of service and the Refund policy.

Our order process is conducted by our online reseller Paddle.com. Paddle.com is the Merchant of Record for all our orders. Paddle provides all customer service inquiries and handles returns.

REFUNDS

You may ask for a refund within 30 days of the payment. If work has not started, the refund is the full amount. If work has started and the scope is unfinished, the refund is the part of the payment not covered by work already done. If the delivered work matches the written scope, that payment stands. If it does not match, AiCodrs corrects it, or refunds the part that does not match.
